

Europe and the Faith

I say the Catholic conscience of history I say consciencethat is, an intimate knowledge through identity: the intuition of a thing which is one with the knower I do not say The Catholic Aspect of History. This talk of aspects is modern and therefore part of a decline: it is false, and therefore ephemeral: I will not stoop to it. I will rather do homage to truth and say that there is no such thing as a Catholic aspect of European history. There is a Protestant aspect, a Jewish aspect, a Mohammedan aspect, a Japanese aspect, and so forth. For all of these look on Europe from without. The Catholic sees Europe from within. There is no more a Catholic aspect of European history than there is a mans aspect of himself.
