[...]lap to see how writing was done. At nightfall he ran into Teddys nursery to watch how the kerosene-lamps were lighted, and when Teddy went to bed Rikki-tikki climbed up too; but he was a restless companion, because he had to get up and attend to every noise all through the night, and find out what made it. Teddys mother and father came in, the last thing, to look at their boy, and Rikki-tikki was awake on the pillow. I dont like that, said Teddys mother; he may bite the child. Hell do no such thing, said the father. Teddys safer with that little beast than if he had a bloodhound to watch him. If a snake came into the nursery now But Teddys mother wouldnt think of anything so awful.[...].
